

CORE VALUES

In order that the Department may be able to pursue the stated vision, it is necessary that the community of staff, students and technician and administrators that constitute the department of Architecture adhere to the following core values to guide internal and external relationships

- To perform up to the highest measure of competence, always.
- To pursue relentlessly the essence of knowledge, to know the truth.
- To work as a team, recognizing the vital role played by each member of the academic staff, students, non-academic staff and those in the administrative structure of the University.
- To initiate meaningful actions and to make decisions.
- To be respectful of the achievement of others, no matter how humble.
- To acknowledge the special historical debt we owe the traditions and histories of African people.
- To interact and share information and knowledge.
- To be responsible and to encourage responsible action.
- To be protective of the beauty and diversity of the natural environment upon which we focus our activities.
- To be open minded about the things and phenomena that have not been explained.
